

ONE IS FOUND DEAD IN FENCE WAR

Some sound advice to business men, especially those charged with the management of the larger enterprises, was given recently by H. A. Batten, president of the country's biggest advertising agency, in an address before a national advertisers' association at a convention at Hot Springs, Va.

He declared that the immediate and pressing need of American business is to get back the lost friendship and confidence of the public through advertising.

"If, like the telephone company," said he, "you had told the people of the United States all about your company—your basic policy, your stock structure, your operating methods, your employee relationships, your services to the community—if, like the telephone company, you had done this from the beginning, year after year, so that each upcoming generation would learn about it in turn, then you would not today be in the position of having to approach the public as a comparative stranger and to sue for its confidence, for if you had done that you would already enjoy that confidence as a friend."

Many industries and utilities have been following the course Mr. Batten suggests for many years and have profited thereby. But many neglect to tell their story until they are attacked, often by political demagogues, and thus placed on the defensive. The public wants to be fair, but in order to do so it must have all the facts.

More people die from heart disease than from any other cause, its death toll among business men being especially high. Yet proper precautions, if taken in time, would prevent many of these deaths.

Writing on this subject in a fraternal magazine, Dr. Charles H. Mayo, world famous physician and surgeon, says:

"The report of the sudden death of a prominent business man from heart disease is all wrong. He was years in dying. A year ago his physician, if given the opportunity, might have discovered the damaged heart which he probably had had since developing some infectious disease or infected teeth. Early detection with proper personal hygiene and wise treatment would have added happy, useful years."

A recent bulletin of the Dental Institute of America points out that 23 million school children are in serious need of dental care, with an average of from four to six decayed teeth. In many cases these are likely to develop the type of heart disease which brings early death. Too often an infected tooth is permitted to drain into the blood stream until irreparable damage is done, through failing to see a dentist except when forced to do so because of an aching tooth.

It is a well known fact that dental science is making definite progress in preventing the development of heart disorders. But such disorders resulting from infected teeth will not be materially reduced so long as some 100 million people, or three out of four in the United States, remain neglectful of both daily and professional dental care.

Nearly everyone has heard of the seven wonders of the world, but probably few could name them and fewer could tell what became of them. Those interested in such things might clip this out for their scrap book.

The seven wonders of the world were so named by Antipater, a writer in Palestine, about 100 B. C., as follows:

The Hanging Gardens of Babylon destroyed in 484 B. C., more than 100 years before they were listed among the wonders.

The Temple of Diana at Ephesus, burned in 262 A. D.

The Statue of Zeus at Olympus, destroyed in 408.

The Colossus of Rhodes, sold for junk in 653.

The Lighthouse of Pharos at Alexandria.

SAME GADGET MAKES SPRAY OR STREAM

The kitchenette influence is credited with inspiring inventors, who are turning out gadgets and kitchen accessories which serve dual purposes. An example of this trend is the combination filter and spray pictured above. Attached to a water faucet, it will either make a spray suitable for washing vegetables, fruits, etc., or upon turning the little lever, it will make a narrow stream for ordinary usage. The twin pail idea facilitates scrubbing as one section may be used for clear water while the other is reserved for suds, thus doing away with the necessity of continually changing the water.

Ohio Will Have a "Little Ruhr"

A new "little Ruhr" is rising seven miles up the Cuyahoga river from Cleveland, Ohio, which will mark it as America's meeting grounds for iron ore and coal. The development is part of the Republic Steel corporation's program of expansion. A $15,000,000 plant, shown above, is under construction, which, when completed, will be the world's most continuous strip mill.

Burlington Priest Native of Ireland and Member of Interesting Family.

When Father T. F. O'Sullivan sounded the gavel for order and opened the program of Rosebud's annual Chamber of Commerce banquet Wednesday night it was his first triumph as toastmaster de luxe.

The handsome Priest of St. Michael's Parish in Burlington is a native of Ireland. The spotlight of to-nights big doings in the City of Roses will not only reveal the charm of an engaging personality but focus attention upon an interesting family.

3 Years Here

Father O'Sullivan completed his third year as Priest of the fine old parish at Burlington. He came to St. Michael's from St. Mary's church in Houston. A brother, Rev. M. J. O'Sullivan is a Priest in Dubuque, Iowa. Another brother Joseph O'Sullivan will be ordained a Priest in May of 1928 for the Diocese of Galveston. He is now in St. Mary's University in La Porte.

In Leeds, England a sister is a member of the teaching order. She is Sister Mary of the Rosary.

Parish 50 Years Old

The Parish at Burlington is over 50 years old. It numbers about 100 families. The Golden Jubilee was celebrated last year. The church has been unusually successful in meeting its debts with all maturities paid to 1938. The Parish school was closed when Father O'Sullivan came to Burlington. Under the Sisters of Incarnate Word of Houston the school is

ROCKDALE MAN IS HELD IN SLAYING

The body of Morgan Jenkins was found in a pasture over the Milam county line in Burleson county south-east of Rockdale Friday morning. He had been shot.

Justus Alford of Rockdale community was placed under arrest by Sheriff Clint Lewis of Burleson county, and was admitted to bail in the sum of $3000 in justice court at Caldwell.

Denies Shooting

According to information here Alford denies he shot Jenkins or that fence cutting in the woodlands overlapping the borders of two counties, had anything to do with the trouble.

Alford has under lease a body of land belonging to Pete Coffield of Rockdale. During recent months, it was said here, new fences built across the hitherto free ranges of the post oak country, have been cut, and rebuilt only to be slashed again. Responsibility for the cutting of wire had not been placed but was said here to have caused feeling among neighbors in the isolated wood country.

Near the body of Jenkins a fence had been cut.

Examining trial has been set for Thursday morning in Caldwell. E. A. Camp of Rockdale has been retained by Alford.

Cattle Stealing Raising Talk of Old Range Days Stockmen Call Meeting

A three fold program for Milam county cattle raisers is launched in a call issued Wednesday by four range owners for a mass meeting in Cameron at 10 a. m. Saturday, July 24th in the court house.

One of the purposes of the meeting seeks to rid the county of cattle thieves a problem that is as old as the range. Long ago Texas cow men met and solved that problem. Their efforts often took a tragic turn but the pioneers stopped the thieves and laid the foundation for the world's greatest livestock empire.

Asks Laws Aid

Milam county cattle men seek through all possible lawful means to rid the county of cow thieves.

The call is signed by Geo. T. Graves, R. L. Batte, J. A. Smith and E. Vogelsang.

The meeting will seek to forward through organization the breeding of better cattle, to secure the best markets possible and "to protect through lawful means the security of said cattle and to apprehend and bring to justice all persons who may steal said cattle."

Thefts Are Numerous

Cow stealing in Milam county has been one of the under cover outrages about which the public knows little. One small stockman some months ago, after losing 16 head, sold out and quit. He said he could not hope to succeed with such conditions obtaining in the county.

Milam county stockmen are determined to stamp out this form of outlawry if they have a call on the state for Texas Rangers.

Farm Tenant Who Sold Mortgaged Property Is Returned From California

Eleven months ago a grand jury indictment was returned against L. F. Naten, tenant farmer, for disposing of live stock under mortgage to the Rockdale State Bank.

Monday he was lodged in the Milam county jail to wait trial. He was arrested in Bakersfield, California on information of Criminal District Attorney Emory B. Camp and Constable W. C. Colvin of Rockdale. Extradition papers were granted by Governor Allred on application of the District Attorney who with his trusted constable, went to California and brought Naten back. Naten is said to have left the county before officers could arrest him following the September indictment in 1936. He borrowed a small sum of money from the bank at Rockdale and gave a lien on some cattle, horses, mules and farm implements. He was indicted for disposing of the property. The bank held a loan amounting to $222.21.

T. B. Ryan, vice president of the bank, asked Naten's return to Milam county. He is 42 years old and has a wife and several children.

The past week has been a tragic as well as a hectic one, but it has been productive of very little in the way of tangible results.

The weather has been unbearably hot. When it gets hot in Washington there is no breeze and the air is full of moisture, almost like a room full of steam. There is no escape. Even though the House and Senate Chambers are air cooled, the offices are hot and the nights are as bad as the days. There have been a number of deaths in Washington from the heat and while I do not know whether it is true, it was reported early last week that more than thirty members of the House and Senate were in hospitals at that time.

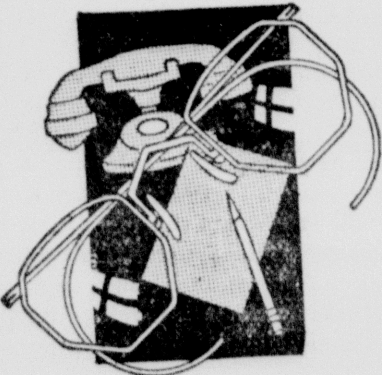

In spite of this situation the court fight has been going on with increasing fervor in the Senate. On Thursday afternoon, Judge Summers of Dallas, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee and sixth oldest man in the House in point of service, rose and spoke for an hour, urging that we lay aside the court fight and act on some of those other problems that need attention before adjournment. He contended that the court fight was useless in that there was no longer any reactionary majority on the court and that in fact as soon as the President fills the present vacancy there will be a two-thirds progressive majority. He said that in his opinion if the fight did not stop it would wreck the Democratic Party and prevent the passage of any needed legislation.

The next morning we got the news of the sudden death of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who was the majority or Democratic Leader in the Senate. Everyone here feels that the Senator was himself out trying to carry too great a load. He was loved and respected by both friend and foe. Services were held in the Senate Chamber Friday and were attended by the President as well as all members of both House and Senate.

While the Senate has been absorbed with the court question the House has been in continual session (except on the day of Senator Robinson's death.) As the tempers of the members have seemed to resemble the weather the debates have become more bitter and most matters have been accompanied with prolonged debate. The House spent one whole day debating the conference report on the Interior Department Bill and finally passed it over till this week. This bill should have been passed prior to July first (the beginning of the fiscal year.) The Senate has added so much that it is now $17,000,000 in excess of the figure reported by the House sub-committee. I voted against accepting several of the Senate amendments and to send the bill back to the conference committee.

The House did, however, take two important steps. Both House and Senate last week accepted the conference report on the tenant-farm home-ownership bill and sent it to the President in substantially the same form as it passed the House.

Of course I voted for the report, although as I have heretofore said, it is but a step in the right direction. The other important action was the vote of the House to override the President's veto of the act extending the present 3 1-2 and 4 per cent interest rates on Federal Farm Loans and Commissioners loans respectively. I cannot see how we can justify a policy of spending money to make homeowners out of tenants and at the same time extend no help to those who are now home owners to try to keep them from falling back into tenancy. The Government can now borrow money at 2 1-2 per cent. It does not sustain any actual loss in loaning this at 3 1-2 per cent on farm mortgages and I do not believe that the Government should demand its pound of flesh by the literal enforcement of its outstanding contracts that would allow it to collect up to 6 1-2 per cent interest on these loans. I, therefore, voted to override the veto. If the Senate can get a two-thirds vote as did the House, this relief will be extended, but I do not know when the Senate will vote on the matter.

J. C. Duerksen, a medicine peddler, has as his best customer a Chyenne Indian at Weatherford, Okla., who is always in the market for a bottle of cough syrup. The redskin uses it to sweeten his breakfast pancakes.

MARKETING OF POULTRY PRODUCTS

The production of standard poultry and eggs will pay the farmers of Milam county well. The present price paid by local produce buyers for No. 1 eggs is 14c per dozen and No. 2's are 8c per dozen. This is only a difference of 6 cents. That is not much. It is just a cream cone for the baby and a post card for the mother-in-law. Yet, figured in percent it is a costly negligence.

Taking Big Loss

Six is 75 per cent of eight. Eight is over 75 per cent of fourteen. This sounds good when we are counting up profit but you see we are checking up the loss you are taking for good feed put into poor hens and failing to care for the good eggs. This is $1.80 per case loss to you and the buyer is worse off as he has a hard time getting rid of these small dirty cackle-berries which should have been large, clean, respectable, and wholesome eggs good for anybody's market. If you sell No. 1 eggs you get 75 per cent more money than when you sell No. 2's and then the hen scarcely pays for the feed she consumes during the summer months.

Feed No. 2's to Husband

Now just what are we going to do about these No. 2 eggs? We are going to get some of them from any flock of hens. Just feed them to the husband and the other animals around the house. However these eggs may be so small that it may require two where it took only one before. These No. 2 eggs are good food and can be substituted for the No. 1's cheaper at home than in the egg market.

I have just spent two days with a produce buyer and notice that there are more inferior poultry products put on the market than good quality products. This used to pay but it doesn't any more. Eggs are candled and weighed at present and you are going to get the price of the grade of produce sold. No more "hog-round" buying and selling at any point between the producer and the consumer of poultry produce. So let's standardize our produce and get the cream cone and the post card.

Brown-Forman Distillers Issue Financial Statement; Look for Big Fall Business

Louisville, Ky., July 14—The annual financial statement of the Brown-Forman Distillery Company was released today by Owsley Brown president. When interviewed by a reporter Mr. Brown said he was looking forward to a strong fall business in which the aggressive sales policy of the company would again be supported by a consistent newspaper campaign in all important markets.

In commenting upon the annual statement Mr. Brown said that the progress of the company had been uninterrupted except for the flood period. In the eight months period the sales showed an increase of 46 per cent over the corresponding period of the previous year.

Income Large

The annual report shows net income for the year ended April 30, 1937, after Federal and State income taxes, but before provision for Federal undistributed profits tax, was $288,693.90, notwithstanding losses and charges attributable to the flood, was $694,125.16.

The net of $288,693.90 for the fiscal year ended April 30 compares with the net of $475,062.27 for the preceding fiscal year but a true picture of the remarkable progress the company was making until the unprecedented flood disaster is presented by the following comparison of the sales and profits for the eight months period ending December 31, 1936 and December 31, 1935.

Sales Increase

The net sales for the last eight months of 1936 amounting to $6,236,676.63 compare with the net of $4,275,608.46 for 1935, an increase of 46 per cent. The gross profit in the 1936 period of eight months was 45 per cent greater than the corresponding period of 1935. The net profit for the eight months period of 1936 was 40 per cent greater than the net for the same 1935 period.

Operating Capital

"It is gratifying to note," said Mr. Brown, "that despite the unusually heavy drains upon cash resources of the company brought about by the flood and expenditures for capital improvements the company's working capital continues to be satisfactory. Current assets as of April 30, 1937, stood at $4,772,179.35, against total current liabilities (exclusive of renewable notes) of $890,867.66—a ratio of over five to one."

Advertising Big Aid

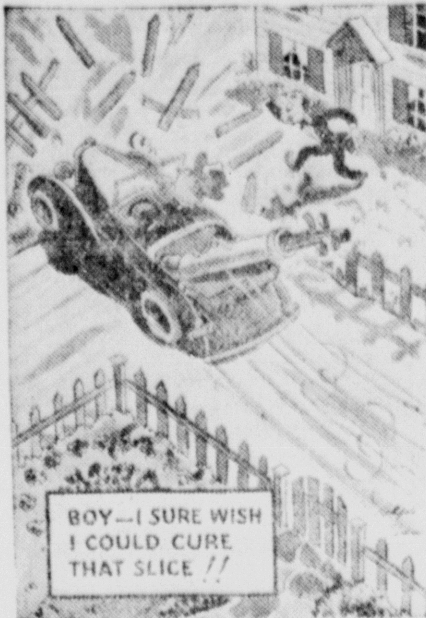

"Newspaper advertising will appear in all important centers and we naturally expect the same satisfactory response in increased sales which we have enjoyed in the past from our exclusive newspaper campaigns. 'Old Forester,' our bonded brand, will be featured as will the quality of our sales leader, 'Bottoms Up,' and of our other brands, 'Early Times,' 'Old Tucker,' 'King of Kentucky,' 'Old Forman.' We look upon our campaign soon to go into effect that covers completely all markets of consequence we have every reason to expect a continuation of sales progress."

The following "calamity recipe" is going the rounds: "One stewed prune, one pickled peach, one date. See that prune and peach are well saturated with brandy or gin, then place in seat of one high-powered coupe and leave on road about 30 minutes. Garnish with bits of broken glass and serve cold on a stretcher. Also is extremely attractive with flowers in light-colored box with silver trimmings."

Interest are WIDESPREAD

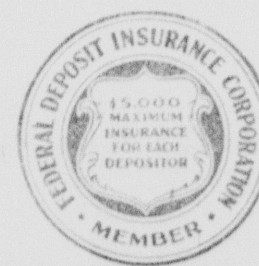

The narrow lives of an earlier day are not for Americans of the present.

Their interests reach from coast to coast, across seas, into all parts of the world.

Money for transportation, communication and education has brought to every individual in the United States the opportunity for rich experience, wide spread interests.

Money has created this opportunity, and money enables the individual to take advantage of it, for money, today, buys more than ever before.

Wentreck, J. R. Marek and Martin Stepan.

Growth Is Rapid

The R. V. O. S. was instituted at Ocker in Bell County when these pioneers 36 years ago set about to rear up a strong insurance association for the protection of their property. Mr. Marek says there are now 140 lodges over Texas with 7499 members. The Association has upon its books $11,156,652.83 in Fire Insurance and $3,780,585.53 in Storm Insurance or a grand total of $14,937,238.36. There is a limited membership in each community and there is no city property insured except for the old members of the organization.

During the past four years losses from fire were paid in the amount of $125,266.31. Storm losses for the past 4 years were paid in the sum of $4,360.88.

The next convention will be held in West in July 1941.

Slavik Is Re-Elected

The only spirited contest of the convention was over the election of a secretary. Mr. Slavik defeated Chujej almost 5 to 1 when the convention in an overwhelming indorsement of Mr. Slavik returned him to the office. His work was highly commended and he ranks among the best Secretaries the Association has employed during its existence. Of special interest was the praise of Mr. Slavik's system of books which are modern and comprehensive in every detail.

Milam Visitors

Attending the convention from Milam county also were: John Hrozek, Frank Mikulec, Frank, Slavik, Paul Sipula, Wm. Strzinek, Fred Lazek and Joe Stocklas, of Cameron, the latter being a delegate.

Will Kuzel of Buckholts, also a delegate and Jos. Slavik, Jr., attended. All worked for the re-election of Mr. Slavik and Mr. Marek and returned here last Wednesday very happy over the outcome of the convention.

vention. Mr. Chujej, defeated by Mr. Slavik was at one time prominently identified with James E. Ferguson in politics but no longer enjoys the former governor's friendship. He now teaches school.

Telegram Received

Cameron delegates and visitors to the convention appreciated a telegram from Judge Graham Gillis and Bill Alex Bonds urging the re-election of Mr. Slavik for the post of Secretary.

A copy of the Flatonia Argus contains some interesting detail of the convention. A welcome dance was given Sunday night at Fair Park Auditorium with the Henry Brosch orchestra making the music. Monday morning the business session opened and the business houses were closed from 8 to 1 a. m. The Chamber of Commerce band furnished music. Mayor M. Fernau gave the welcome address. The Czech Dramatic Circle gave the National Hymn Hej Slovane. A welcome address on behalf of the Catholic Parish was brought by Rev. Jos. Pustka. J. H. Hurta of Temple opened the Grand Lodge Convention.

Sharp Educator Says

State Superintendent L. A. Woods, in his address to the school trustees, bus drivers and teachers assembled at A & M on July 15th to hear discussed the transportation problems, commended the Legislature for its efforts in providing for the school. It was his opinion that they did a good job considering the conditions under which they were working; the final action of the Rural Aid bill came past midnight with a group of men who had worked diligently on the problem. There was no hint from the speakers on the program or from those present other than that they had explicit faith in the sincerity of the members of the Legislature, and that they believed our representatives would go back to Austin in September when a called session would probably be held, and ardently support legislation to make possible the continuation of the transportation program.

The transportation program set up by the Legislature is identical with that set up last year. There is no change in the bill from that set up two years ago except that there were insufficient funds appropriated to cover the cost of operation of the buses. Only about $972,000 was appropriated where as over $2,000,000 would be required to finance the program. It is logical to believe that the Legislature would set up a system in all of its details and not supply enough money to operate it? It is our problem to see our legislators personally and call to their attention the necessity of the bus system if the boys and girls of the Rural sections are to have access to the high schools of Texas. On the other hand, if we sit idly by and say nothing, they will think that we are satisfied with the bill as it was passed. We must have $1,250,000 more or the earmarking must be changed so the State Department of Education can spend more on the buses. It is agreed that high schools capable of doing standard work cannot be built within reach of all of the pupils, so the only thing that remains is that the transportation program be continued or our boys and girls will be deprived of a high school education.

Post card greetings came Monday from Emory B. Camp, criminal district attorney from Los Angeles.

With Mrs. Camp he is taking a rest from his duties here and seeing many interesting things in the West. "Big bridges, high mountains, beautiful flowers and Hearst newspapers all go to make a fine country," reads the brief message to The Editor.

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Camp were guests of Governor and Mrs. Allred in the executive mansion at Austin at a dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McLean were visitors in Taylor, Thursday.

BOUNTY IS PLACED ON MILANO WOLVES

A bounty has been placed on wolves by the Commissioners' Court following the request of a delegation from Precinct 3, the Milano vicinity.

Citizens there say wolves are preying on turkeys and pigs. A bounty of $5 was placed on grown wolves and $2.50 on puppies, for a period of sixty days.

Scalps are required to be filed with the County Clerk, Homer Nabours, with an affidavit saying that the killing was made in Milam County within the prescribed period.

By fixing an alarm gun which was fired by the opening of the door in

ERECT MONUMENT TO MILAM PIONEER JUDGE

The state of Texas has erected a monument on the grave of the first county judge of Milam County, Massillon Farley, who is buried in the Oak Hill cemetery in Cameron.

One hundred years ago, the first county court of Milam County was held at Old Nashville, then the county seat. Farley held the court and was known at that time as chief justice.

Farley died in Cameron in 1882.
He owned a plantation near Old Nashville, which was founded by Sterling C. Robertson and was at one time secretary to Robertson.

Inscribed on the monument is the following: "Massillon Farley, a soldier of the Texas army stationed at the camp at Harrisburg, April 21, 1836. First Chief Justice (County
Judge) of Milam County. Died 1882.
Erected by the State of Texas 1936."

Through the influence of Judge Jeff T. Kemp this mounment was placed.

MORE SCHOOL MONEY

(Editor's note: This article is published as a news item and represents the personal views of Mr. Ferguson only.)

The State Board of Education has raised the public school apportionment from $19 to $22 per student. This is the highest increase ever given by any board at one time and the amount is now the highest in the history of public education in Texas.

This increase in the per capita school apportionment is made in the interest of longer terms of school for the children and in the hopes of better paid teachers, which will of course raise the standard.

One of the reasons why Texas is only 36th in the educational standard is because of the inadequacy of salary paid its teachers. While the average salary paid public school teachers is only $840 per year in Texas, it is $2250 in New York, $2000 in Pennsylvania, $2000 in Illinois, and I do not recall any Southern State where the average teachers salary is as much as $1000 a year. The yearly requirements of teachers at their own expense makes it almost an impossibility to get a decent living out of the average salary paid for the years work. All this is bound to have a bad effect on the teacher standard and has an undesirable influence against teachers wanting to make teaching their life work.

Maybe we can get along with a lazy ignorant lawyer, maybe we can put up with a two bit preacher, and maybe, if we have to we can endure inefficiency in many lines, but certainly we don't want to make the mistake of having incompetent teachers to instruct our children. The permanent existence of this government, now threatened with dangerous influences and pernicious isms, depends primarily that our children do not grow up in a prolific field of ignorance.

We must get all the qualified educational instruction we can pay for, and, as I said 20 years ago, let us begin with the public schools.

The papers report that Governor Allred is opposed to the raise in the apportionment to $22. He is quoted as saying that he wants to take this $3 given to a million and half children and use it to take the ad valorem tax off of real estate. I agree with the Governor that taxes on real estate should be abolished, but I don't want to make the school children pay the bill.

Our boys and girls have but one time to be educated and that time is now. While the tax on real estate ought to be abolished, yet it can wait, but the education of the children can't.

We must make provision for longer terms and attractive salaries for efficient teachers, if we hope to ever put Texas in its needed standard of popular education.

Criticism is made of the Board's action on the ground that it was a Ferguson Board that done it. Correct, and I am proud of it. Fergusonism has always stood for popular education and as long as there is strength in me I will be on the firing line for full term schools and the best teachers money will buy.

On Oatmeal Have Quins Who Thrive Third Birthday

In the Spring the whole world's fancy lightly turns not to thoughts of love, but to thoughts of the famous little Dionne sisters who celebrated their birthdays May 28. The usual procedure is for the famous Quins to have individual birthday cakes with fancy frosting and candles and to be surrounded with numerous gifts. However, in all the excitement the regular routine of the famous babies is not allowed to vary for one minute. They awaken between 5:30 and 6:30 o'clock in the morning, are fed the usual diet, and are tucked into bed at night promptly at 7 o'clock, birthday or no birthday.

The famous Dionne Quins' birthdays vary a few minutes. It is said that Annette is 115 minutes younger than Yvonne, the oldest. Cecile is 15 minutes younger than Annette and two minutes older than Emilie, while Marie is the youngest "Minutely-speaking."

With the odds forty million to one against them at birth the five famous babies are setting a new record in the annals of medical history. And the whole world is looking on with amazement.

Of course part of the buoyant good health of these famous babies is due to the medical staff. It is they who selected oatmeal as a cereal for the Dionne babies. Oatmeal with its wealth of Vitamin B helps to protect young and old alike against constipation, nervousness and poor appetite due to lack of that vitamin. And, too, oatmeal with milk is a splendid source of food energy, body-building minerals and muscle-building protein.

Yes, indeed, the Dionne Quins eat Quaker Oats today and every day and it doesn't take two guesses to tell why they're as wide-awake and bubbling over with good health as any proud youngster of today.

Paul Ralteaux of Paris left $10,000 to Marie Dregend, the only cook whose soup suited his taste.

James H. Hodge of Cincinnati was granted a "love injunction" when he appealed to the court for protection from the unwanted attentions of a girl.

Thompson Joins U. S. Rural Line Power Company

Clifford Thompson, Milam County Surveyor and also state licensed land surveyor has accepted a position with the R. E. A. under the engineering staff, in planning and laying out rural electric lines in Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Thompson's recent work has been in Waco and Hillsboro. Prior to this work he completed two month's successful work in West Texas with the AAA farm program on one of the largest farm mapping programs attempted in the United States.

Thompson is a former student of A. & M. College, where he studied electrical engineering.

When D. K. Kesler of Loveland, Colo., investigated the squeak in the engine of his car, he found a nest of five mice.

COOLEST Cooking Appliance Yet Developed!

In all the world there has never been a cooking appliance so cool in operation as TODAY'S GAS RANGE! And it's little wonder! For there has never been a range so well insulated and so advanced in top burner design.

With heavily insulated sides, top, back and doors heat is retained inside the ventilated fresh-air oven. Perfect heat control of all top burner cooking prevents excess steam—ends high kitchen humidity. And only with gas cookery is heat turned on and off instantly. You do not have to wait on elements or stove lids to heat before cooking can start.

Make no mistake about it! Today's gas range is a scientific development that makes possible a cooler and more comfortable kitchen. Beautify your kitchen with one for faster, easier and cooler cooking. You can trade your old range in on one and pay balance in small monthly payments.

The Pyramid of Cheops, the only one of the "Seven Wonders" still in existence.

Such were the seven wonders of the ancient world. Many lists of modern wonders have been made, but a recent writer selects not the perishable works of men, but the discoveries and inventions which have revolutionized civilization.

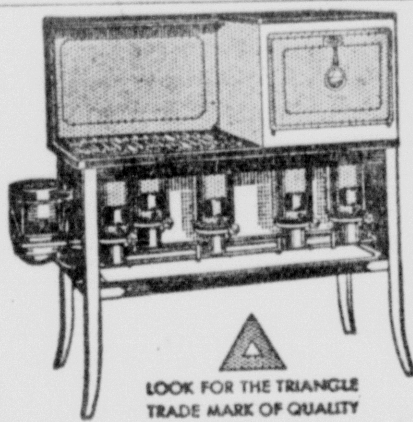

He names the radio, the telephone, the airplane, the antiseptics, spectrum analysis and radium. Whether his list is the best that might be made or not, the wonders mentioned will survive as long as humanity exists, bestowing untold benefits upon mankind.

Less Monthly Discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.
